

Huey P. Long

Every Man a King -- Radio Speech to the Nation

delivered 23 February 1934

Read former Governor Huey P. Long's famous speech at this link:

and write your response to the following in a concise, well-organized essay:

It is ironic that Governor Long delivered this speech after he built the new State Capitol, which was so different from the "castle-like" look of the old State Capitol, a building he virtually abandoned. What was Huey Long's message to the people in the speech? Was it the same message or different from the one he wanted to communicate by building the new State Capitol?
